32.3% YoY decrease

- In Japan, business is recovering from the impact of COVID-19. Sales rose for compounds in the materials-for-daily-life market, films for the media and signage field, and commercial-use wrap in the food wrapping materials market, leading to revenue growth.
- Overseas, business is recovering from the impact of COVID-19. Sales rose for PVC compounds for the medical and materials-for-daily-life markets, leading to overall revenue growth.
- Segment profit declined due to delays in passing on higher raw material prices.

Sales of medical compounds and film

- Revenue in Japan grew with expanding sales of high-performance elastomer compounds to new customers.
- Overseas, sales volume declined due to the shutdown of customer plants as a result of COVID-19; revenue rose due to the effects of price increases for certain products.

Sales of food wrapping materials (including three months of Riken Fabro sales due to its absorption)

- Revenue from commercial-use wrap increased due to the steady capture of demand associated with COVID-19 in home dining.
- Revenue from small roll wrap increased due to expanded sales of home use wrap to large retail stores and recovery in the food services market.

- Revenue in Japan increased due to recovery from the impact of COVID-19 and higher sales of compounds in the energy and telecommunications markets.
- Overseas, revenue increased due to recovery from the impact of COVID-19 and higher sales of PVC compounds.
- Segment profit increased due to higher sales.

Sales of PVC compounds for electric wires

(Billion yen)

- In Japan, the energy market entered a recovery trend, and revenue grew following acceptance of our streamlining proposals to customers, boosting sales of PVC compounds.
- Overseas, revenue increased due to higher sales of PVC compounds in ASEAN and North America.

Sales of optical film

(Billion yen)

- Sales of ICE-μ thermal barrier film grew due to higher automobile production in ASEAN, but revenue declined due to discontinuation of the model used in an existing large-scale mobile project and a lull in demand for RIKEGUARD.

IV Building & Construction (BC)

(Unit: Million yen)

Medium-term business plan targets: Net sales 24.1 billion yen, operating profit 0.8 billion yen
